Futuro Health Scholars Spotlitged in New Global Series 'Caring with Courage'

Produced by BBC StoryWorks Commercial Productions

(SACRAMENTO, Calif.) – Futuro Health, is excited to announce that two of its Scholar alumni, Justice J. and Carsyn P., will be featured in the second series of "Caring with Courage," presented by the International Council for Nurses \(ICN\) and produced for them by BBC StoryWorks Commercial Productions. This series highlights the vital role nurses play in global health, showcasing their innovative approaches to healthcare and their dedication to managing the health of entire communities.

Justice and Carsyn, both aspiring nurses, began their careers in allied health roles through Futuro Health's scholarship program. Their stories exemplify the dedication and passion that Futuro Health fosters in its scholarship recipients, highlighting the impact of allied health roles in shaping future nurses. This pathway allows them to develop patient care experience as they pursue career options in nursing.

"Caring with Courage" features fourteen compelling stories spanning film and articles, filmed across four continents. The series celebrates the diverse roles nurses take on when caring for their communities and will be prominently featured at the upcoming ICN Congress in Helsinki, Finland, in June.

Back for a second series following the series' initial success, Caring with Courage is an in-depth look at the work nurses do, and the ways they are shaping the face of global health. The series champions nursing through the incredible nurses featured in the stories, engaging audiences in this world through powerful characters and world-class storytelling. From the nurses innovating hospital to home care through an easy-to-use app, to the nurses empowering patients with comfort and independence, Caring with Courage highlights the trailblazers and changemakers who keep us well.

"Health is the most valuable asset a person possesses, and nurses are the trusted leaders of caring who protect it" said Howard Catton, CEO of the International Council for Nurses (ICN). "The second Caring with Courage series coupled with the first, provides yet further evidence that nurses' day-to-day actions, including the life-and-death decisions that they make, promote health and wellbeing for everyone."

"Futuro Health is proud of our Scholars and the role we have played in unlocking their opportunity to enter the field of care by equipping them with credentials and qualifications for their first or next career in healthcare," said Futuro Health CEO Van Ton-Quinlivan.

The new series, Caring with Courage, launched on 24 April 2025. Audiences will be able to explore "Caring with Courage" via www.caringwithcourage.com.
